PDSS

Working towards independence
in the community...

What is PDSS?

PDSS is a community-based service, which provides practical, emotional and/or social support to individuals.

If you are aged between 18 and 65, and have a physical disability, Acquired brain injury and/or sensory impairment, then you could make use of what PDSS has to offer.

Aims & Objectives

To encourage individuality and as much independence as possible.

To assist you in aspects of your life in the community that you may find difficult or impossible to manage alone, or to relieve the pressure on partners/other carers who are helping you at the moment.

To assist you to access and make the most of your community and what it has to offer.

What can PDSS help me with?

Social Support:

We can provide a Support Worker to assist you to go out socially, to places of interest to you.

Practical Support:

Your Support Worker can assist you with the practical day to day tasks necessary to run your life.

Emotional Support:

Some issues in life have no easy solutions. Some have no solutions at all. Your Support Worker is there to listen, should you wish to simply sit and talk.

Interested?

If you think PDSS might be the right service for you, or you aren't sure and need more information, please contact us on the number at the back of this leaflet.
